

Factories and work during the Industrial Revolution Research Guide

Use the iCentre Website to access the following reliable sources of information.

List Key Words

Industrial Revolution

Factories

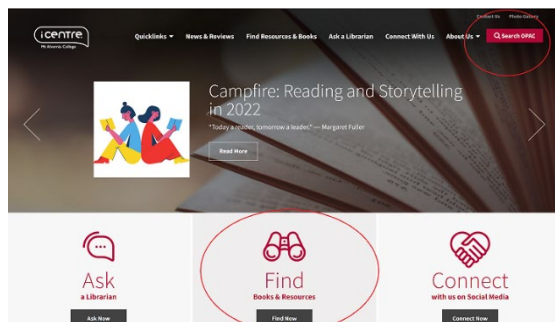

Work

labour

Child labour

Go to the OPAC: Do a search for factories and work Industrial Revolution

OPAC

Check the contents and index pages of these books to locate the relevant information.

Take notes/photocopy relevant pages for highlighting and notetaking.

Don't forget to record the information required for referencing.

Go to One Search for academic articles

Britannica Middle

Scroll through sub-headings to relevant section – skim read to check usefulness.

Save article for notetaking by choosing 'print' and 'save as PDF'.

Don't forget to record the information required for referencing.

Modern World History

Articles

Open articles – scroll and skim read for relevance and usefulness. Tip: use Ctrl F or Command F to discover if your key terms appear in the article.

Save article by choosing ‘download’ and save the PDF.

Primary sources

Example of primary source:

"Minutes of the Evidence taken before the Committee on the Factories" (excerpt)

Videos

Scroll through the transcripts to check for usefulness and relevance.

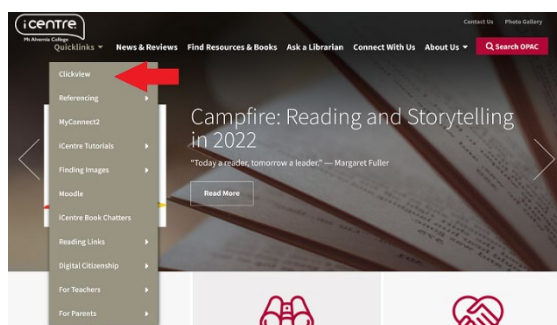

Example of useful video

Life in Industrial Britain

Have a notebook ready to take notes as you watch the video.

Don't forget to record the information required for referencing.

Go to ClickView for academic videos and documentaries (found on the iCentre website – Quicklinks)

Search for Industrial Revolution

Scan headings and description for relevance and usefulness.

Example useful videos:

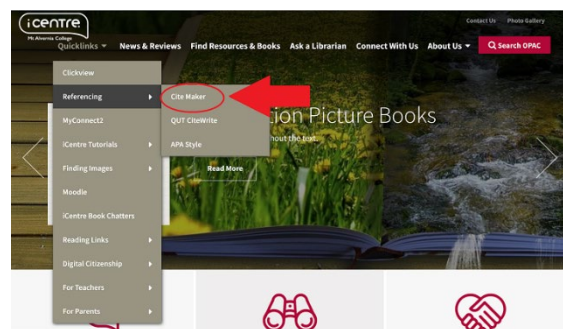

Impacts of the Industrial Revolution

What The Industrial Revolution Achieved - City Living

Reference your sources to ensure academic integrity.

Go to Citemaker for academic videos and documentaries (found on the iCentre website – Quicklinks - Referencing)

Citemaker

Create & save a list in Citemaker called Factories and work during the Industrial Revolution – create and save a reference each time you use a source of information.

For a Referencing Quick Guide to APA7, you can also refer to your Student Planner on P.29.

Don't forget that you can Ask a Librarian through the iCentre website if you need more help.